The Gender Equity and Reconciliation International (GERI) program fosters new dimensions of transformational healing and reconciliation between women and men. No society on earth is free of gender imbalance between the masculine and feminine. Both women and men are afflicted by gender injustice, and each needs the other for a true and complete healing.

Developed over the past 25 years by Satyana Institute and its precursors, more than 150 intensive training workshops have been conducted on five continents—bringing women and men together to jointly confront gender injustice. These gatherings have been held in the United States, Canada, South Africa, India, Kenya, Croatia, and Australia. Results from these gatherings are inspiring and are documented in the book:

Divine Duality: The Power of Reconciliation Between Women and Men
(Hohm Press, 2007).

Hollaback! is a global, people-powered movement to end harassment — in all its forms. We believe that we all deserve to be who we are, wherever we are.

We believe we all have a role to play in disrupting harassment and building a culture where it is no longer seen as “just the price you have to pay” for being a woman, LGBTQ+, a person of color, or any other marginalized identity. We teach people to take action, and to reach across their own identities to ally with others and establish a united front against harassment each time we witness it.
